

FirePoint Challenge

"The SPARC"

SHAPE THE FUTURE OF SOFTWARE ARCHITECTURE

OVERVIEW:

The effort begins with university-based teams who will participate in the Student Practical Architecting Challenge (SPARC). The challenge is divided in three progressive phases spanning the course of 9 months. Teams will compete for financial awards up to $29,500 and will have access to networking and educational opportunities with Government and Industry experts. Using dedicated campus and/or small business resources, members will collaborate internally to produce a software product. Will you be able to engineer a solution for the unknown, the unprecedented, the unpredictable? You will have to stretch your software skills, creativity, anticipation, strategic thinking, and boldness to win this competition!

OUR RULES:

- Students must be 18 or older
- Full or part-time undergraduate or graduate student
- May use a faculty advisor
