CSS Selectors

- Possible selectors:

  - Element selector selects all elements of this type
  - Id selector selects only one element with this unique id
  - Class selector selects multiple elements with this class
  - Group selector(,) selects all elements like these types
  - Descendant Selector( ) selects all elements that are children of a parent. This means the child element is contained within the parent element.
  - Universal Selector(*) selects all elements in HTML document.

UNIVERSITY OF
SOUTH CAROLINA

CSS Selectors- Element selector

- Element selector selects all elements of this type
- Universal Selector(*) selects all elements in HTML document.

h1 {color:green; background-color:pink}

p {color:red; background-green}

body {background-color:grey}

*{text-align:center}

UNIVERSITY OF
SOUTH CAROLINA

denisesd@sc.edu

CSS Selectors- Selecting one or multiple elements

• Possible selectors:

• Id selector selects only one element with this unique id

#id1 {color:green}

• Class selector selects multiple elements with this class

.class1{color:blue}

• Group selector(,) selects all elements like these types

h1,h2,h3{background-color:green}

UNIVERSITY OF
SOUTH CAROLINA

denisesd@sc.edu