A DFA is an NFA where, for every state, there is exactly one edge labeled with each symbol in the alphabet.  Thus, if at least one accepting state is reached, it accepts the input string.  If no accepting state is reached, the input string is not accepted.  (Thus, the only difference between an NFA and a DFA is that DFAs always choose exactly one transition for every input symbol.)